A new website for a new model of equipment and services supplier!

DAHER launches a brand new www.daher.com

DAHER, a European equipment and services supplier, announces the launch of its new website, www.daher.com.

With a new visual identity, the completely revamped DAHER site gives a full presentation of the group providing information about its market position, key data, company structure, corporate history, site locations, etc.

It also reflects DAHER's new positioning defined in its strategy plan 'Ambition 2012'.

As an equipment and services supplier underpinned by a new and original business model, Daher offers integrated solutions which combine state-of-the-art industrial technologies with expertise in high added-value services.

The group has set itself the objective to further double in size within the next five years with a forecast turnover in excess of a billion euros.

To support the constant changes in industry and to meet its customers' needs, DAHER's offer is centered around four strategic sectors (Aerospace, Defence, Nuclear and Automotive) and three complementary fields of expertise (manufacturing, services and transport)

The site also supports online applications through a new 'recruitment' space. DAHER plans to recruit over 400 people in 2008, including 200 engineers and managers.

Finally, the latest press documents on group news can be access via the media archives.
